CIC welcomes the interim report of the Innovation & Growth Review into Low Carbon Construction

Graham Watts, Chief Executive of Construction Industry Council (CIC), said “CIC welcomes the publication of the interim report of emerging findings into whether the construction industry is capable of playing its crucial role in delivering the Low Carbon Economy for the future; and commends Paul Morrell and his Innovation and Growth Team for producing the work against such a tight timescale, prior to the Election. We see the new jobs that will be needed to decarbonise the built environment, as being a major opportunity for the UK professions and the construction industry, both in this country and in a leading role across the globe. It will need a cohesive approach from all the professions across the industry and CIC and its members are eager to play a positive role in delivering a regenerated industry that is fit for this purpose.”

Notes to the editor

1. CIC is the representative forum for the professional bodies, research organisations and specialist trade associations in the construction industry. It provides a single voice for professionals in all sectors of the built environment through its collective membership of 560,000 individual professionals and 25,000 firms of construction consultants.
